

Brooke Rollins
President

Graduating from Glen Rose High School, Brooke attended Texas A&M University and graduated cum laude with a Bachelor of Science degree in Agriculture Development. While at Texas A&M, Brooke was the first female to be elected and serve the 43,000 students of A&M as their Student Body President.

Brooke graduated with honors from the University of Texas School of Law. After working with then-Texas Governor George W. Bush, she joined Texas Supreme Court Chief Justice Thomas R. Phillips' staff.

After law school, Brooke spent several years as an associate with the law firm of Hughes & Luce, L.L.P., in Dallas, Texas, focusing primarily on complex commercial litigation. She also completed a federal judicial clerkship with the Honorable Barbara M.G. Lynn, a United States Federal District Judge in the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division.

Brooke was then tapped by Governor Rick Perry to serve as his Deputy General Counsel. She later served as the Governor's Policy Director, managing the Policy Division and all policy issues including education, transportation, natural resources, agriculture, criminal justice, economic development, health and human services, and insurance.

On January 1, 2003, Brooke took the helm as President and CEO of the Texas Public Policy Foundation. The Foundation is a non-profit think tank dedicated to the ideals of the free market and limited government, focusing specifically on Texas issues.
