

Amy Paige Condon

Since April 2001, Amy Condon has served as a project manager for the South Florida Office of The Trust for Public Land (TPL), a 32-year-old national not-for-profit land conservation organization. Her work with TPL involves conservation transactions, conservation finance and program management, including the Biscayne Bay Strategic Access Plan. Amy worked in the Planning and Research Division of the Miami-Dade Park and Recreation Department from 1994-2001 prior to joining TPL. During her tenure with Miami-Dade Parks, Amy provided technical assistance for the successful $200 million Safe Neighborhood Parks Act of 1996, drafted a method for the calculation of operating impacts resulting from park development and rehabilitation, and created the Programming Partnerships program that streamlined a process for the department to join forces with community-based organizations to offer recreational programming and environmental education throughout the parks system. She has served as the Director of District 7 (1999-2001) for the Florida Recreation and Park Association (FRPA) as well as its state Advocacy Chairperson (2000-2001).

A native of Fort Worth, Texas, Amy has a Bachelor of Science in journalism and political science from Texas Wesleyan University, and has completed coursework toward a Master of Arts in Urban Affairs from the University of Texas at Arlington. Before moving to Miami, she was employed by Downtown Fort Worth, Inc. as a planning and communications assistant for the 10-year Strategic Access Plan for the central business district.
